By D. Kelly Scruton

The City Council, Monday night, approved an ordinance authorizing the mayor and city clerk to sign a contract with the State Highway Commission in reference to construction of additional improvements on south U. S. Highway 65 from Broadway to 32nd Street and U. S. Highway 50 west from State Fair Blvd. The contract is a supplementary one to another signed some time ago, and merely spells out specifications and some changes which were in effect improvements to the original document.

Somerville To Campaign In County

Ronald Lee Somerville, Chillicothe, Republican candidate for State Senator from the 16th district, which includes Sedalia and Pettis County, will visit here Thursday and Friday. The announcement was made by Hazel Palmer, Republican Party county chairman.

Somerville will visit in the county all day Thursday. Friday will be spent in Sedalia. An open house for the general public has been planned for Friday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. in the Farm & Home Savings & Loan building.

Somerville is a native Missourian and has spent his entire life in Missouri except for a period of approximately 4½ years during World War II when he was in service. He was born Feb. 1, 1921, at Hopkins, Mo., and moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Somerville, to Chillicothe, in Dec., 1921.

He received his elementary and high school education in The Chillicothe Public Schools. He attended Westminster College, Fulton, for two years prior to World War II. ## High Voltage Line Lights Up The Sky

A high voltage wire behind the residence at 174 Summer Avenue dropped to the ground about 2:55 o'clock Tuesday morning creating considerable excitement in the neighborhood. The wire, in shorting against the wet ground, sent up high flames which lighted up the west end of Sedalia.

The West Sedalia Fire truck answered the alarm. Several fire alarms were received of the flames shooting high into the sky.

Missouri Public Service linemen arrived on the scene within a short time and made the necessary repairs.

Pettis County Grant

The Office of Economic Opportunity Monday approved a $26,626 grant to the Pettis County Community Action Corporation to provide skill training for youth administered by the Pettis County University Extension Service and for the remedial reading program for the children of Pettis County R-5 school. The announcement came in a telegram from US Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long and US Representative William J. Randall.

City Engineer Robert Cunningham pointed out the Highway Department, under new rulings, is not approving what are known as parking strips along the highway such as were constructed on Broadway east and along the new highway east from Crescent Drive to the Missouri-Pacific underpass.

Instead the new improvements to be done will consist of four-lane roadways with a ten-foot asphalt strip along the side of the highway for emergency parking. The curbs will be rounded so cars can easily go off the main traveled lanes.

Also the Highway Department will take jurisdiction over access entrances onto the highway on U. S. Highway 50 west from the Missouri-Pacific spur and south from 16th Street to 32nd Street. In other words, present access entrances will be approved, but any new or additional entrance ways will have to be approved by the Highway Department. The new improvement to the south will include center islands for left turns in the vicinity of Sixteenth and Limit, similar to those on Broadway between Kentucky and Massachusetts, also an island dividing the highway through the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad underpass, which is to be widened to handle four lanes of traffic.

The new contract also conforms to any utilities to be changed and new street light improvements which might be installed by the City of Sedalia.

This contract is the first move toward starting of the two new projects under the Urban Plan. A report was heard from the Zoning and Planning Commission.

Police Probe 4 Break-Ins During Night

Police were busy Tuesday morning investigating overnight break-ins at two Sedalia business places and a forced entry to a truck owned by a meat processing firm.

Items valued at $12.79 were missing from Central Tractor Parts, 1620 West Main, but police said the loss may run higher when a complete inventory is made. Taken were a dozen assorted gloves valued at $10, change amounting to $2 and a 79 cent tape measure. Officers said entry was gained by breaking a south window on the west side of the building.

No loss was noted at the Stout Salvage Company, 110 North State Fair Blvd., police said, but a desk in the office had been ransacked. Entry to the office was gained by breaking the window in a rear door.

Hunger apparently overcame burglars at the Roseland Meat Co., 2506 West Main, where a route salesman's truck parked on the east side of the building was pried open.

Stolen were a ham, several packages of hamburger and several packages of lunch meat valued at a total of $25, police said. Officers also reported a salami loaf had been cut into with a short knife.

Wise Farm & Industrial Equipment Company on west Highway 50 outside the city limits was also burglarized during the night. The Sheriff's Department investigated and reported $4 missing from the cash register. Entry was made through a rear window.

DEATH PLUNGE—This is a view of the bridge near Warsaw, Mo., where a truck loaded with metal plunged into the muddy Grand River carrying three persons to their deaths. Some 120 feet of the bridge flooring was ripped away when the lower support cables gave way under weight of the semi-truck-trailer unit from Odessa, Texas. The dead are identified in the accompanying story below. (Democrat-Capitol photo)

Boy's Body Recovered Today

Third Body Found In Truck That Plunged From Bridge

The Highway Patrol Rescue Team today recovered the third body from the cab of a truck that broke through the floor of a swinging bridge and plunged into the Grand River about seven miles northwest of Warsaw Monday morning.

The divers on the team recovered the bodies of Lannie Walker, 46, and his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Walker, both of Odessa, Tex., about 6 p.m. Monday.

The third body was that of the four-year-old son of the couple. The boy's body was in the sleeper compartment of the truck, which could not be entered by the divers Monday night, due to swift currents and floating debris brought on by a rapid rise in the water during the day.

The latest recovery climaxed a search that began about 9:40 a.m. Monday when Mrs. Lewis Eisel, operator of a resort near the bridge, heard the bridge give away. She said she saw a truck drop through and plunge into the river.

Authorities were notified immediately and Benton County Sheriff Lawrence Phifer notified Sgt. Glen Means and Trooper John Cummings of the Highway Patrol. The officers went to the scene and found 120 feet of the bridge in the water, with no sign of the truck.

Various reports were given on the identification of the truck, and on the number of occupants. The Patrol began an immediate check on contracting firms that might have had a truck-trailer of the type described in the area. The known contractors reported they had no trucks in that area.

In the meantime, the Highway Patrol Rescue Team was called in. This team is made up of Trooper William Southwick, Sedalia; Trooper D. W. Owsley, Waynesville; Trooper John Cummings, Warsaw; Trooper Bill Whiteman, Jefferson City; headed by Sgt. Mike Hodge, Jefferson City.

While the team members were traveling to the scene, the Highway Patrol was alerted.

Tornado Alert Breaks Up Game

SLATER, Mo. (AP)—A tornado alert scattered the spectators and broke up a high school football game five minutes before the half Monday night.

The Boonville High School B squad was ahead 20-6 of the Slater High School football team and that's the way it's going down on the record books, authorities said.

Marsh, Mo. (AP)—William Henry Florence, 37, of Malta Bend, Mo., was charged with first degree murder today in the death of a neighbor.

Sheriff Steve Rimmer said the neighbor, Harold Dandridge, 71, died after being struck on the head with a baseball bat. The men had been arguing in a yard between their homes, the sheriff said.

Fire Sweeps Tennessee's State Fair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Wind-fed flames swept through the Tennessee State Fair Grounds Monday night destroying three main exhibit-filled buildings and sending thousands of opening night spectators fleeing in fright.

An early morning count showed 18 persons received hospital treatment, 10 of them firemen who suffered smoke inhalation. None were believed critically injured or burned.

A preliminary probe of ruins revealed no bodies. Mayor Beverly Briley said there were no known missing persons.

Briley, who was visiting the area of the women's building where the fire broke out, gave a preliminary damage estimate of $8-10 million then early today raised it to $10-12 million.

Destroyed with the women's building were the adjacent merchant's building and administration building. All were three-story barn-like wooden structures about 50 years old.

The women's and merchants buildings were filled with art, antiques, handicrafts, photography and merchandise exhibits.

Also destroyed was the grandstand alongside the three buildings. It was emptied when the evening show ended shortly before the fire broke out.

Briley immediately closed the fair which was beginning a one-week stand.

Electrical wiring was believed the cause of the blaze.

Car Wrecks As Police Give Chase

Two Teen-Agers Injured In Crash On North US 65

Two teenagers, in an apparent attempt to elude police, ended a wild chase by crashing their car and going to the hospital—both injured, but not believed severely. The 1959 Chevrolet Impala convertible piling up in a ditch at the junction of North U. S. Highway 65 and County Route HH, about two minutes after officers radioed police headquarters they were going to stop the car near Missouri Avenue and Johnson Streets.

The first call to the station stated officers were planning to stop the car in the 800 block on North Missouri was received a few seconds after 12:41 a.m. and at 12:43 officers reported an accident and summoned assistance.

Injured was the driver Albur Carr, 16, Route 2, Sedalia, a student at the Smithton high school, who suffered bruises and complained of an injury to the left shoulder and soreness in the small of the back. He also received several minor cuts. He is the son of Mrs. Ruth Carr.

Leonard Wayne Rosenhan, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Rosenhan, 1620 South Brown, a passenger in the car complained of a back injury, but an x-ray did not reveal any fractures. He received some bruises.

The two were taken to Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance where Dr. John Lamy attended Rosenhan while Dr. A. L. Lowe treated the Carr boy. Both were admitted to the hospital for further observation.

Police Officers Edward A. Romano and E. L. Fennell were cruising the city and came upon the car near Pettis and Osage, looking for a similar car, the owner of which had failed to pay a delinquent fine. As they drove west on Pettis Street the car went considerable distance on the wrong side of the street.

After officers turned on to Missouri Avenue, they turned the red light on and sounded the siren.

Smithville Braced As Water Rises

SMITHVILLE, Mo. (AP)—As the rain continued and the Little Platte River started its inevitable rise a knot of people stood glumly on the Bridge Street bridge Monday night.

"I think we ought to move the whole town completely," said William Faies. "Of course, if a flood hits again, there won't be much to move."

Smithville is a flood-prone town. It nestles in lowlands 20 miles north of Kansas City and the Little Platte flows through the town. The population is 800 or less.

There were severe floods in Smithville in 1929 and in 1947. In 1951 and 1964. And on the night of July 19 this year the water rose to a depth of 22 feet, flooding the town from one end to another.

Faies' house was washed off its foundations in the July flood. He just returned to Smithville Sunday.

"If it floods again, I'm moving to Texas," he said.

John Pate moved to Trimble, Mo., after his 5-room house was washed away. He stood on the bridge and said: "I'll never move back again."

Sam Herndon, 82, and his blind sister, Miss Froni Herndon, 81, still live on the same lot as before the July flood. Only now they live in a trailer because the house no longer is there. Herndon stood on the bridge too.

The weather bureau says the Little Platte will rise to seven feet above flood stage.

That's 10 feet below the level in July when the home of James McClasky, 47, was covered by 16½ feet of water.

From the bridge, McClasky commented: "Let's give the town back to the Indians—if they would take it."

Special Call To House 'Doubtful'

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Prospects appeared considerably dimmer today that Gov. Warren E. Hearnes will call a special session of the legislature to redistrict the Missouri House.

The governor is attending the Midwest Governors' Conference at Mackinac Island, Mich., and was not available for comment.

But he just hasn't got the support from House members he hoped for on his proposal that a bipartisan commission named by him would do the job of reapportioning in line with federal court one man-one vote decisions.

That apparently leaves only the alternatives of redistricting by the federal court or an at-large election next year for the 163 House seats.

In caucus Monday, House minority Republicans voted for a resolution urging a special session that could make sure the legislature had a voice in choosing the bipartisan redistricting commission. It was a voice vote, but the minority leader, Rep. Ronald M. Belt, R-Macon County, said he heard no votes against it.

There were 35 of the 40 Republicans present. Hearnes said Sunday he believed he would need the support of 20 of the Republicans before calling a special session.

The Democratic majority of the House voted 56-13 Sunday to go along with the governor's reapportionment plan. But it takes 82 affirmative votes to pass any legislation through the House.

Under the governor's plan the two state party committees would submit panels of 10 members each. The governor would select five from each panel to do the redistricting task. That's the method used to redistrict the state Senate.

Asia Crisis, Arms Lock As Necessity

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant told the U.N. General Assembly today the military conflicts in Asia and the disarmament deadlock have reinforced his views that all countries—including Red China—should be represented at U.N. headquarters.

In the introduction to his annual report, issued as the 114th General Assembly preparation General Assembly prepared to open its 20th session, Thant declared that the war in Viet Nam had "cruelly set back" the trend toward East-West cooperation and revived the cold war.

He added that the international situation in recent weeks "has again been disturbed" by the conflict between India and Pakistan.

The Secretary-General said he was aware of the political difficulties of seating all governments in the United Nations, but he said he was convinced more than ever by the developments of the past year that all, at least, should be represented.

"I have no doubt," he said, "that the true interest of peace would be better served if non-member states were to be encouraged to maintain observers at the United Nations headquarters so that they may be in a position to sense the currents and cross-currents of world opinion which are so uniquely concentrated in the organization."

He did not name the countries he had in mind, but those not represented at the United Nations include the Peking regime, North Viet Nam, North Korea and East Germany.

The assembly was not expected to deal with the China issue until later in the session, and the chances for seating the Peking government appeared slim.

Thant's report also said the United Nations still faces a precarious financial situation, and it is handicapped by lack of effective machinery for future peacekeeping, but there is hope that a new spirit of confidence and determination will emerge at the current assembly.

Red Chinese, India Troops Swap Fire

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Troops of India and Red China exchanged shots at close range today near the 14,000-foot-high Nathu Pass in the Himalayas, the Indian government announced. The skirmish evidently was brief and bloodless.

Chinese soldiers moved into Indian territory near the pass, which connects the Indian protectorate of Sikkim with Communist-ruled Tibet, then withdrew when the Indians opened fire, the government radio said.

"There was no real push through by them or by us," a spokesman reported. "Our troops have strict instructions not to cross the line."

The Indians suffered no casualties and so far as was known the Chinese lost no men, he said.

This was the first reported outbreak of Indian firing along the Himalayan frontier since Peking—an interested spectator in the Indian-Pakistani war over Kashmir—handed New Delhi an ultimatum last Friday.

The announcement of the shooting came amid reports that Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri had informed the United Nations that India would accept the Security Council's demand for a cease-fire in the Kashmir conflict if Pakistan also complied.

Sheriff Report

The residence of Mrs. Edna Wheatley, Georgetown, was broken into Sunday afternoon, but no loss was reported. Entry between the railroad tracks and Main, from M-1 to M-2, heavy industry. The Council voted its approval and ordered an ordinance drawn.

The Council also approved the petition of residents on West 11th in the 1200 block for curb and guttering on both sides of the street, and also curb and guttering along the west side of Park between Tenth and Eleventh. The work is to be done under private contract under the supervision of the city engineer.

Councilman James Askren asked that an ordinance be drawn for a street light at 15th and Mildred. The Council gave unanimous approval.

Councilman Bob Wells reported under the Sewer and Sanitation Committee reports, the new garbage truck has arrived and has been placed in service. He also reported all the other trucks are to be worked over and repainted as quickly as possible.

Approval was given by the Council to Councilman James Schumaker for the purchase of a new utility blade for the tractor at the Sedalia Municipal Memorial Airport. The cost of the apparatus is $280, and it will be used in cleaning snow from the runways.

Councilman Floyd Priddy, under the report of the Finance and Taxes Committee, told the Council the various departments have over-spent their budgets for the first three months of the fiscal year, June, July and August. He told the councilmen to "go careful for the remainder of the year and it is hopeful through the fall and winter months, the budget can be balanced."

Continuing he said, "We worked many nights in setting up the budget, and had to slash off considerable monies from the departments to get this budget, with each department still getting a little more than in the past. Now we must watch the monies to balance the budget."

Two ordinances were given final passage, one which accepts $364,130 federal grant for work on the west sewer treatment plant and other work in connection with the Sewer Bond Issue of this plant. The other ordinance was for a fire hydrant in West Benton, 100 feet east of Harrison would intersect with Benton.

Department bills approved for payment were: General and Administrative $2,825.77; Airport $175.90; Fire $245.20; Police $624.63; Street and Alley $1,691.17; Sanitation $10,699.17; Public Buildings and Grounds $273.68; Parking $478.08; a total of $16,413.55. Also approved was bills on the Sewer System Account for $38.00, an overall total of $16,451.55.

Whittier School will get a crossing guard in accordance with approval given by the Council, when Councilman Bob Wells and Ray Simon of the Third Ward insisted the adult guard was needed at this school on East 16th. The guard will receive $75 a month during the school months. Six councilmen voted yes, James Shumaker, Walter Jessee, R. N. Snively, Wells, Simon and Ralph Walker, while Askren and Priddy "passed." By passing they actually approved the proposal according to the laws of such voting in a Third Class city.

W. K. Van Vickle, 104 Helen Circle, in the Thompson Hills Addition, asked the Council if the matter of storm waters flooding basements in the area had been discussed by the committee to which it was referred. He appeared before the Council two weeks prior protesting the conditions in that section, and asked that some action be taken.

Little information came of the request other than it would be discussed between the Council and city engineer to see what relief could be made and how.

Mayor L. L. Studer announced to the Council the necessity of a Citizens Advisory Committee to prepare a workable program for a community progress under the Housing and Home Finance Agency. "This," he said, "is a study to eliminate blight areas of the city, and to obtain Federal assistance we must have a working committee to help on the program. I am submitting a list of 30 names from every walk of life in Sedalia to work on this program," Mayor Studer concluded.

The following were approved by the Council with the group each represents: real estate, Clinton J. Muller; bankers, Robert W. Mason and James W. Ripley; merchants, Damon Hieronymus, Robert Cain and George Dugan, Sr.; physician, Dr. A. R. Maddox; park board, John Vandekamp; attorney, Robert Gardner; news media, K. U. Love; home financing, J. E. Mitchell; garden clubs, Mrs. L. H. Hodges; Chamber of Commerce, Sam E. Boyle; housewives, Mrs. Harry Browder and Mrs. Mary Louise Cain; schools, Ralph Lee; Central Labor Committee, Emmet Sullivan; Teamsters, Francis Rudd; citizens, Leon M. Charles Pfeiffer and Rev. George Sparling; manufacturer, C. W. Mathieson; MOP shop employee, Oscar Lawson; and former councilman J. C. Griffin.

Mayor Studer at the close of the meeting recognized Mrs. James R. Schmidt who was in attendance at the meeting with more than 30 Sedalia Girl Scouts. She explained it was a part of their project to study citizenship and government.

The mayor welcomed the girls and said, "I hope the meeting is beneficial, constructive and informative to you."

Mayor Studer Will Attend Conference

Mayor L. L. Studer will attend a conference of Missouri mayors at Jefferson City to be held Friday, Sept. 24. The meeting is for all mayors of cities in Missouri with a population in excess of 5,000, and all these mayors have been requested to attend the meeting on invitation of Governor Warren E. Hearnes.

The conference, Mayor Studer reported, is for an open discussion with respect to urban affairs in the state.

By passing they actually approved the proposal according to the laws of such voting in a Third Class city.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old nervous wreck (male type). The trouble is my parents.

A typical day at our house starts something like this: I usually get up before my folks and fix breakfast. When I am just about half through my folks come into the kitchen. If I don't say "Good morning" first they say I am rude. If I happen to be reading the paper they say I am selfish because I should have left it alone until they got down.

Next my father complains because the coffee is weak or the eggs are hard or the toast is burned. My mother yells back that if he didn't have something to complain about he would be miserable.

After breakfast either my mother or dad can't find something and each one blames the other for misplacing it. To look at my folks you'd think they were the happiest people in the world. My dad makes about four times the average man's salary, (about $25,000 a year). When company is at the house they are sweet as can be.

They never argue over anything important. It's always silly stuff. What can I do short of slipping tranquilizers into their coffee? — THE SHOOK LOOK.

Dear Shook: You can say good morning first and hand over the paper immediately. Then you can leave the kitchen so your father can knock the coffee, eggs and toast privately. You can donate five minutes every morning to the Treasure Hunt as your contribution to family unity.

Finally, when you get married and have a family of your own you can remember how it was at your house and vow to do better so YOUR teen-agers won't have to write to me about YOU.

Dear Ann Landers: You seemed surprised when the woman wrote to ask why the doctors insisted that her friend have a blood test as soon as he was checked into the hospital. Why? Most people who have little or no contact with hospitals don't have the vaguest idea of what goes on inside. They are filled with misinformation, apprehension and old wives' tales. I've worked in hospitals since I was 16 and the ignorance of the general public is astonishing.

ing. It's amazing how many folks think a blood test means VD, a cardiogram means a heart attack and an X-ray means cancer of TB. When they are asked to list next of kin they are sure it means they are not expected to live. It's too bad the general public isn't better informed. It would save a great deal of needless anxiety.

Please tell people through your column, Ann Landers, that hospitals are highly organized institutions and that they must be operated in a way that enables them to give the best possible service to the greatest number of people. This means they have to have all sorts of information as a matter of routine.—IN THE KNOW.

Dear In The Know: Thanks for an excellent letter. But I still wish someone IN THE KNOW would tell me why they give hospital patients sleeping pills at night and then awaken them at 6 a.m. to wash their faces.

Confidential to FED UP TO THE EYEBROWS WITH LECHEERUS JERKS: If you don't like what you've been catching why not change the bait?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Driver Training To Restore License

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Starting in January auto drivers with revoked licenses can get their permits back sooner by going to driver improvement school.

Under the plan, drivers will be retrained in defensive driving, taught safe driving habits and compliance with traffic laws under a two-hours-a-week, month-long course. The course will permit drivers to cut as much as two months off the time their licenses have been suspended.

The Big Boom in Beauty

In case you haven't noticed, the beauty business is booming.

It is true, of course, that a pretty face and figure have never been any real handicap to a girl. But the rewards are now fantastic.

Take the case of 19-year-old Deborah Bryant of Kansas, for example.

When delectable Debbie walked down the long runway in Atlantic City recently as newly crowned Miss America, she was literally heading for the bank.

Along with the $10,000 scholarship she won with her crown, she can count on taking in about $100,000 in the next year in fees for personal appearances and in other queenly emoluments.

To earn this kind of money, Miss America may have to be just a wee bit commercial as well as plenty glamorous. For while sponsors love pretty girls, as who doesn't, they love them even more when the pretty girls prettily plug the pretty product.

And with four sponsors, Miss America has the privilege of plugging four products—an automobile, a soft drink, a home permanent and a certain brand of fabrics.

It is true that she is permitted to work only four hours a day, lest she become too tired and perhaps less beautiful. But she does have to be chic, charming, vivacious, personable, affable, courteous, tactful, kindly and a model of deportment 24 hours a day, day in and day out.

Have you ever tried it?

But tough as it is, the job doesn't seem to scare away applicants. Some 70,000 girls, for instance, entered 3,500 local preliminary contests, each dreaming of becoming Miss America and working her pretty head off.

But it's nice to know that millions of girls who have never even tried to win a beauty crown still look pretty darn good to a lot of people, including boys, and seem to be surprisingly content.

So despite the big payoffs for pulchritude, maybe whoever said beauty is only skin deep had something after all.

But probably no sponsor.

Many eighteen year olds and their parents have little enthusiasm about the war in South Vietnam. There is a definite apathy around the campus and other places where young men congregate, about facing the draft.

As the eighteenth birthday approaches mothers are not eager to put the candles on the cake. Every excuse from minor ailments to college deferment and even marriage is being offered to escape the call to arms.

One cannot blame them too much. Vietnam is not a glamorous war. The boys will not be going off to fight in disciplined trenches with well-trained allies. They will be taught to fight a guerrilla war which is a sneaky kind of conflict, hiding behind bushes and shooting at any target that comes along.

Some kind of inspiration must be given these young men. Are we a freedom loving

Glass Company Looking for Plum

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is on a news-gathering tour of Africa. In his absence the column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—House Agriculture chairman Harold Cooley, who has been curiously glib to the sweet talk of the sugar lobbyists, has rammed through his committee a million-dollar sugar quota for the Owens-Illinois Glass Company.

Technically, the committee voted a 10,000-ton quota for the Bahama Islands, but the entire windfall would go to Owens-Illinois—which is famous for its glass, paper and plastics but has never produced a pound of sugar in its corporate history.

Unless the House balks at Cooley's request, the American taxpayers will be compelled to shell out $1,000,000 a year to put Owens-Illinois in the sugar business.

Here are the amazing statistics:

Once the quota is granted, the taxpayers must pay 6.75 cents a pound for 10,000 tons of sugar which would sell on the world market for 1.75 cents a pound. In other words the taxpayers will be stuck for $100 a ton over the world price, which adds up to a cool $1,000,000-a-year giveaway for Owens-Illinois.

Several countries have been battling for a share of Uncle Sam's sugar money; some have hired high-priced lobbyists to plead their case before Cooley's committee. But the Bahama Islands didn't even put in a bid.

Pulpwood To Sugar
The quota request came not from the government but from Owens-Illinois, which sent a company vice president, Hugh Laughlin, around to see committee members. He also made his pitch behind closed doors of the Agriculture Committee.

Though the world is producing too much sugar, Cooley cheerfully granted a 10,000-ton quota to a country which has yet to plant its first acre.

The entire production will be grown on greater Abaco Island, where Owens-Illinois

MOBILE REGISTER: An Age of Comfort.

— This is an age in which modern man spends literally millions of dollars to maintain his personal comfort. A great part of our efforts are aimed at this. In the winter we stay warm. In the summer we seek the cool comfort of air conditioning. When we sit, we sit on soft cushions. Cushioned shoes make standing and walking easier on the feet. We have pushbutton industries and intricate computers to do our thinking.

Life is fast becoming a great big slab of apple pie in the sky — a Utopia where man exists without effort. We won't have to work because the automatic machines will do that. We won't have to pay our bills—the government will do that.

Which finally brings us to the point of this piece. An enterprising chicken farmer, who wanted his hens to lay more eggs in the summer, air conditioned his hen house. The results — egg production went up 60 per cent. Even the chickens are comfort-conscious.

country, dedicated to freedom for other loving countries or shall we sit back and let the struggle for survival go unaided?

Our country is committed in Vietnam and no doubt will be similarly committed in other parts of the world. The reasons for fighting are not very clear in the minds of the young being drafted today, but there is no alternative. The lucky ones may not even see combat, but some will. Some will be wounded, some will die. With the best advice available the President and the Congress have issued the call and the new inductees will respond.

More than half the total tonnage of all goods transported by sea consists of oil.

has been cutting pulpwood. With the lumber about exhausted, the company has been looking around for another crop. Experts tested the soil, studied the climate, and suggested sugar.

Raymond Mulford, company president, explained to this column: "We are the largest employer in the Bahamas. We feel quite a responsibility for the 500 people we employ on Abaco. We have also installed an elaborate and excellent network of roads, docking facilities, power plants and a small hospital. We don't want all this to go back to jungle."

The question is whether the American taxpayers should pay $1,000,000 a year to keep Owens-Illinois in business in the Bahamas. NOTE: Congressman Joe Resnick, D-Y.N., led the closed-door fight against the windfall. But he is a freshman without influence or seniority, no match for the powerful committee chairman.

Forgotten Statesman
Down in Mississippi, the father of army mechanization, Ross Collins, now 85, has the dubious distinction of being the only eligible ex-congressman who doesn't draw a pension — thanks to government red tape and his refusal to come to Washington to fight for his pension rights.

It was Collins who pushed through Congress the first appropriation for the modern tank and the first research money to develop the flying fortress.

In those days, the army rode to battle on horseback, and the brass hats were skeptical of the new-fangled tank. But Collins arranged to parade some tank models up Pennsylvania Avenue, then fought for the appropriation to mechanize the cavalry.

His foresight was largely responsible, too, for the flying fortress which became the backbone of America's bomber fleet during World War II.

Collins retired from Congress voluntarily in 1943, just after the first congressional retirement act was passed permitting pensions. But unlike other congressmen who have retired since the act became law, he has never been able to collect his pension.

India-Pakistan Toughest UN Task

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 20-year-old United Nations has faced some tough ones, but never one quite like this Indian-Pakistan-Chinese hodge-podge.

The Security Council by a 10-0 vote — with the United States and the Soviet Union seeing eye-to-eye — demanded that India and Pakistan stop their war by Wednesday.

If one of them says no, it isn't clear what the council will do. It might, but this isn't positive, try to compel a cease-fire by using U.N. force to make India and Pakistan listen.

But even if they quit fighting, or even if the council is willing to use force to make them quit, this is only part of the problem.

The council doesn't know as of this moment whether Red China will begin a war of its own against India Wednesday, even if India and Pakistan stop their conflict.

The Chinese have given India until Wednesday to dismantle some of its fortifications on China's border or face "grave consequences." Peking has followed this ultimatum with a charge an Indian patrol had fired on a Chinese border guard.

In turn India's Prime Minister

Lal Bahadur Shastri charged Red China with firing the first shots across the Indian border in a campaign to dominate all Asia.

But if China attacks India — whether or not the Indian-Pakistan war halts — the Security Council must consider the question of using force against China. That would mean war. It could mean world war.

For, while the Soviet Union joined in demanding an Indian-Pakistan cease-fire, it doesn't follow it would vote with the big Western powers to use force against its big Communist neighbor, Red China.

The U.N. Security Council in 1950—but only because the Soviet Union was sulking and didn't attend the meeting — voted to use troops from U.N. member nations to stop North Korea's attack on South Korea.

But this time, if the council had to consider the question of force against China, it's a cinch that the Soviet Union wouldn't be absent, even though the Chinese have treated the Russians with contempt in an ever-widening split.

But this, too, is only part of the problem. The council said if India and Pakistan stop fighting and pull back their troops to where they were before the conflict began "steps could be taken to assist toward a settlement of the political problems underlying the trouble."

This might be a hint the council would try to satisfy the demands that Pakistan has been making more than 15 years: that the people of disputed Kashmir be allowed to vote on whether they want to be part of India or Pakistan.

But when India and Pakistan first went to war back in 1948, the United Nations recommended that the people of Kashmir be allowed to decide in a plebiscite which country they wanted to join, and it got a cease-fire.

But the plebiscite hasn't been held yet. In the 1940s India indicated it would agree to a plebiscite. By 1955 it had decided it wouldn't permit a plebiscite, and obviously for the same reason that Pakistan wants one.

Kashmir is 75 per cent Moslem. In any plebiscite, it could be expected the Kashmir Moslems would vote to join Moslem Pakistan instead of Hindu India.

India doesn't concede that but tries to argue that Kashmir is really part of India and therefore there's no reason for a plebiscite. So the dispute is over real estate. But Red China, which is bigger than any country in Asia, wants more real estate, too.

The puzzle behind all the puzzles is this one: No one knows whether China is bluffing with India, whether it figures this is the best time, now rather than later, to make war on its biggest Asian rival, India, or whether it intends just a brief attack for prestige purposes.

China humiliated India in the eyes of all Asia in 1962 with a short, sudden attack that rolled back the Indian forces. Another of the same kind would make the Indians look like patsies, hardly a model for their neighbors.

THE WELL CHILD

'Maple Sugar' Disease Severe in Infants

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is the cause of maple sugar urine disease? My 3½-month-old baby has it. Is it serious? What treatment do you advise?

A—This recently discovered disease is being reported in all parts of the country. It is hereditary and is characterized by an inability to break down certain amino acids in the metabolism or utilization of proteins. The blood level of these amino acids is increased. This and other laboratory tests make the diagnosis.

The baby appears to be healthy at birth but after 2 or 3 days loses his appetite and starts to vomit. He may become stuporous and have convulsions. By the time he is one week old his urine will have an odor suggestive of maple syrup or burnt sugar. Such a baby is highly susceptible to infection.

Minor infections may cause a severe relapse even after the disease has been brought under control.

Treatment in a hospital that is equipped to treat this disease should be started as soon as the diagnosis is made if mental retardation is to be avoided. The treatment includes massive blood transfusions (exchange transfusions in which all the baby's blood is replaced), a special diet with barely enough protein to permit growth, and protection against infection.

Q—What causes PKU? What is the treatment and prognosis?

A—PKU (phenylketonuria) is a hereditary disease in which one of the basic amino acids, phenylalanine, cannot be handled by an infant and is excreted in the urine. Tests are now available to discover this disease in the first week of life. When the disease is discovered it is essential to give the baby a diet with no milk, meat or eggs. Fruit and vegetables and a specially prepared protein supplement are given until the child is 5 or 6 years old, after which a normal diet can be given. When this treatment is carefully followed the baby will develop normally, but when it is not followed severe mental retardation results. This disease is similar in many respects to maple sugar urine disease but involves a different set of essential amino acids.

Q—If a child is born of a father who had recently had a stroke would she be as healthy as if the father had not had the stroke?

A—Yes. A stroke would not affect the father's sperm cells. The child's health would depend on how well the mother was during pregnancy. Hereditary factors derived from both parents and the care the baby received after birth.

Remembering The Past Is One Way to Ignore Present

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — To remember the past is to forget the present.

That isn't a bad idea sometimes, particularly when the present is as noisy, tense and disturbing as it is now. Memory serves a pleasant form of anesthesia, shutting out the sounds of the rude world.

The clamor around you doesn't seem as important if you can sit back, relax and remember when—

Boys never were their hair long after the age of 7.

More people had ridden in balloons than in airplanes.

The most delicious agony of childhood was spending a nickel in a penny candy store — there were so many tempting possibilities of choice.

There wasn't much future in life for a fellow who couldn't learn how to harness a team.

Everybody called you the teacher's pet if she let you take the blackboard erasers outside and dust them during class.

You could buy a roadster for $260. That was in 1925, too, when business was booming.

Physicians were warning that the new dance craze — the Charleston — could cause permanent back trouble as well as broken bones.

Fashionable ladies wore high-button shoes.

At least 90 per cent of the American people had never tasted pizza pie, but about half of them thought any week wasted in which they didn't eat a huge slab of apple pie.

There was hardly a kid in the land who carried his books to school in a briefcase. He usually slung them over his shoulder in a leather strap.

You took your first long step toward adulthood when you learned to whistle shrilly.

A fellow could make a living in vaudeville by imitating bird cries.

A sissy was any boy whose mother wouldn't let him go barefoot all summer. The hero was the first boy to stub his toe so bad he had to wear a bandage on it.

Workmen preferred to get their pay in cash because it was just too much trouble to get a check cashed.

If a motorist drove more than 100 miles without getting a flat tire, he bragged about it for days.

A spendthrift was a fellow who bought a suit that had only one pair of pants.

You could always tell when a man had been to the barber-shop, because you could smell the tonic for the next three days.

The only people who went on diet were sick people, and they abandoned them as soon as they got well.

Those were the days! Remember?

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a new "conversation piece" atop the Capitol desk of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

We the Women

Shooting Some Holes In Masculine Logic

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Men claim that women are impossible to understand — because they aren't logical in their thinking. But men aren't always so logical, either.

Why, for instance, does a man think it's fine and dandy for a middle-aged man to marry a young girl but downright ridiculous for a middle-aged woman to get herself a young husband?

Why should a man resent working for a woman, who has proved her brains and ability by getting to the top, simply because she is a woman?

Why should a man who expects his wife to hold down an outside job regard cooking and dishwashing as "woman's work?"

Why should a woman listen with so much more respect to the ideas of an intelligent man than to the ideas of an equally intelligent woman?

Why is it that when a man low-rates an exceptionally handsome man he is merely being objective about him, but if a woman is the least bit critical of an exceptionally beautiful woman she is just plain jealous?

Why is it that even the least informed man is convinced that he knows more than any woman about politics, business, and what's wrong with the country?

Why is it that a husband who overspends is generous and a woman who overspends is extravagant?

Why should a man think a woman is foolish for falling for a man who has little but his good looks to recommend him and yet not even wonder why he prefers to date a beautiful but dumb girl to a homely but intelligent one?

Why is it that a son who turns out well is a chip off the old block, but one who doesn't live up to his father's expectations was ruined by his mother?

Where's the logic in these typical, masculine attitudes?

Low-Level Flights Handicap B-58 In SAC Competition

(EDITOR'S NOTE: W. D. Hill, news editor of The Democrat, has returned from Fairchild AFB, Wash., where he reported on the Strategic Air Command's bombing and navigation competition. The following is an analysis of the competition's outcome.)

By W. D. HILL

Whether or not the 10-year-old Boeing B-52 Stratofortress is obsolete, is a question that may raise eyebrows of many Air Force officers in discussing aerial armament for the future. Two B-52 wings came out winners over B-58 units in the World Series of bombing and navigation competition at Fairchild AFB, Spokane, Wash., in mid-September in a test by the Strategic Air Command.

High-ranking Air Force officers attending the competition expressed varied views on the fact the B-52 bomber fleet which became operational in 1955 bested the B-58 units, in use about four years.

Some officers felt that had the B-58 supersonic jet won the competition it might have spelled out a more urgent need for development of an even faster and more efficient bomber for the SAC force.

The B-52 flies at about 600 miles per hour while the B-58 is a mach-2 (twice the speed of sound) aircraft.

Factors affecting the outcome of the competition are still to be weighed, but close observers say the low-level bombing and navigation flights proved to be a handicap for the high-speed B-58. This, the observers say, put the B-58 at a big disadvantage when pitted against the B-52 which has long proven its capability to operate efficiently from either low or high altitude.

On the other hand, from the 44 wings taking part in "Operation Fast Charge," 38 B-52s were entered against two B-58s and four B-47s. The latter have been declared obsolete for about five years, but a limited number are still in use.

Mathematically, the B-52s had a tremendous advantage over the B-58s by virtue of numbers. The competition was not only a test of man's skill in flying, bombing and navigating to the target, but it was also a test of equipment and maintenance.

As an example, if two B-52s and two B-58s were pitted against each other — not on a 38 to two basis as was the case at Fairchild AFB — and each were to fly a low-level test to a high-level bombing and navigation mission, most observers believe the B-58 would prove its versatility over the "obsolete" B-52.

Many believe the B-58s capabilities are not fully tested unless such tests are conducted at high altitude for which the aircraft is designed to operate.

But another prime factor is the working condition of all electronic gear on any aircraft. This was demonstrated by the winning crew, from the 454th Bomb Wing at Columbus AFB, Miss., flying a B-52.

The crew was not the original group selected last June to represent the wing and then put through a rigid "additional" training period as added "victory" insurance.

The winning crew was "thrown" together a couple of weeks before the week-long competition opened. This proves that virtually any SAC crew which is declared "combat ready" can take any aircraft, whether its a B-52 or a B-58, and deliver the "goods" providing that aircraft is in proper working condition.

Regarding the proper working conditions, many SAC officers express the view that after ten years use, any SAC plane that is required to stay aloft as many hours as the B-52 has, is suffering from the strain and stress of duty and should be retired.

As one officer put it: "It's not necessarily a question of the age of the aircraft, but the amount of use. A 'brand-spanking' new B-52 would be just as good today as most of the aircraft now on the drawing board. But, a B-52 that's been on duty for ten years can hardly be expected to perform like any other new aircraft. It's all a matter of usage, not age of the design, at this particular point."

The night before competition was concluded, Major Doug Hassing, maintenance officer for the contending B-58 crew from the 305th Bomb Wing at Bunker Hill AFB, Ind., was confident the B-58 would win despite the 38 to two odds.

"I picked 'Greased Lighting' as our entry," he said. "You know, that's the same B-58 that set a world record from Tokyo to London. Nobody else wanted to enter her, but I know she's in perfect working order and that's what it takes. The crew? They are just secondary. Give any of 'em a good plane—one that's in top condition and you'll get your 'shack'." A "shack" is the term used for a direct hit.

Later Major Hassing said the low-level, slow speed was the factor that lost the competition for the B-58. "It wasn't designed for low and slow flying and you can't expect results from 1,000 feet altitude with a B-58 that you'll get from a B-52. Send us up to over 35,000 feet and our scores will speak for themselves against 38 B-52s or 1,000 B-52s — the odds won't matter."

Post Office Summer List Available

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mailman may brave wind, rain and snow, but he is no Secret Agent 007.

Yet, complains Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., the Post Office Department is acting like he is.

Moss, chairman of the House Freedom of Information subcommittee, wasn't accusing postal employees of harboring dreams of trenchcoats and glory.

But, he said, in declining earlier to give congressmen and the public the names of its summer employees the Post Office Department was twisting the law to give mailmen "the same anonymity that protects CIA operatives and National Security Agency technicians."

"If Congress had intended to grant the Post Office Department the power to hire undercover employees, the agency would have been given clear statutory authority to do so," Moss said in a letter over the weekend to Postmaster General John A. Gronouski.

The department was accused by Republicans of turning a summer program to hire youths needing money for school into a patronage bonanza.

When prodded for the names of the summer help, Gronouski originally refused to make them public or give them to individual congressmen. Last week, however, when faced with a proposed resolution demanding he turn the names over to the House, Gronouski agreed to let local postmasters make the lists available.

"The attempt to hide the names of temporary summer postal employees, the furor raised by the secrecy, and the belated decision to make the names available point up the impropriety of a regulation which states, in effect, that the American public has no right to know the names of those on the federal payroll," said Moss.

A spokesman for the Post Office Department said today that as soon as Gronouski cleared the way last week for the release of names of summer job holders the word was relayed immediately to postmasters across the nation. They were told to release the names only after receiving a legitimate request.

"We don't conceive of any situation where the postmaster would refuse to give the names," the spokesman said.

What about the future?

The Civil Service Commission announced Monday it plans competitive examinations for most federal summer employment starting next year. It said a competitive testing plan also is being developed for summer postal jobs, but that examinations for the postal work would be separate from those for general summer employment.

Gronouski recently revealed that 39 per cent of this summer's postal employees had been recommended by members of Congress.

Theft Charges To Be Decided

FULTON, Mo. (AP)—Whether Joseph A. Perou stands trial on charges that he stole $14,205 from the Callaway County Hospital will be decided by a magistrate judge after he receives briefs from opposing lawyers.

Preliminary hearing was held for Perou Monday but Magistrate Hugh P. Williamson said he was concerned whether there was enough information against Williamson, whether the statutes of limitation apply to the case and whether any conspiracy was involved. The judge reserved judgment until he can study briefs.

Perou resigned last April after five years as administrator of the hospital. He is charged with stealing the money between January 1960 and May 1965.

New Found Wealth Is Not Evident In Tippit House

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — There's little in her home to indicate Marie Tippit is a wealthy woman.

A new car stands in the driveway and a color television is in the living room. But the furniture shows the wear of three active children. The house, like the neighborhood, is modest.

And Mrs. Tippit does the housework herself. "Ironing is my biggest job. I never seem to get caught up," she said.

The attractive brunette is the widow of J.D. Tippit, the Dallas police officer killed by President John F. Kennedy's assassin in the day Kennedy was shot—Nov. 22, 1963.

Tippit had stopped the assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, for questioning on a street shortly after Kennedy was shot.

Had it not been for Tippit, officers say, Oswald might have fled the country.

Tippit's death brought spontaneous sympathy from around the world. It has made Mrs. Tippit wealthy.

She received thousands of letters with money enclosed. The total: $647,579. Half of it went into a trust fund for the Tippit children. The widow received most of the rest.

But she didn't go on a spending spree.

"I want the children to grow up just like they would have if J.D. were still with us," she said. "I want them to learn to earn their way in the world just the way their father had to. If you make it easy for them, they won't know how when they grow up."

The children, Curtis, 6; Brenda, 9; and Allen, 15, receive the same allowance they had before their father was killed, Mrs. Tippit said.

"I feel the money was sent out of the kindness of many good people and I should use it very wisely," their mother said.

"I plan to give the children the necessities, and see to all their needs. But I'm not going to spoil them with unnecessary luxuries that they wouldn't have had otherwise," she said.

Mrs. Tippit lives on a strict budget. She watches her pennies at the supermarket.

Presumably much of the money she received is invested, but she declines to elaborate.

She has no plans for moving from the pink brick home not far from where her husband died.

Her views on remarriage have softened considerably since earlier interviews. "That will have to be left to the future. I have no plans now," she told a reporter recently.

But life without her husband is still an ache.

Man May Have To Quit Work

CHICAGO (AP) — Man may have to quit working and learn to loaf creatively to keep ahead of the machine, says a researcher associated with the Illinois Institute of Technology.

"The one distinguishing factor between men and machines, is ability to think creatively, is being threatened," said George Philips, general manager of a management consulting firm owned by the institute.

He spoke Monday at a systems engineering conference during the production engineering and machine tool show, which has attracted some 100,000 visitors from around the world.

Philips expanded on his views in an interview Monday night.

Although machines are capable only of figuring and computing, Philips said, "They're beginning to cross the line."

"Serious thinkers believe that in 15 or 20 years they'll develop a machine with an IQ of 120 that, in a number of areas, will be able to do creative thinking," he said.

The next step, symbiosis — in which a computer will be hooked to a human brain — will be "the true marriage of man and machine," said Philips.

How will man keep the machine from running ahead of him?

"It may well be learning to use leisure which will give us the edge," said Philips.

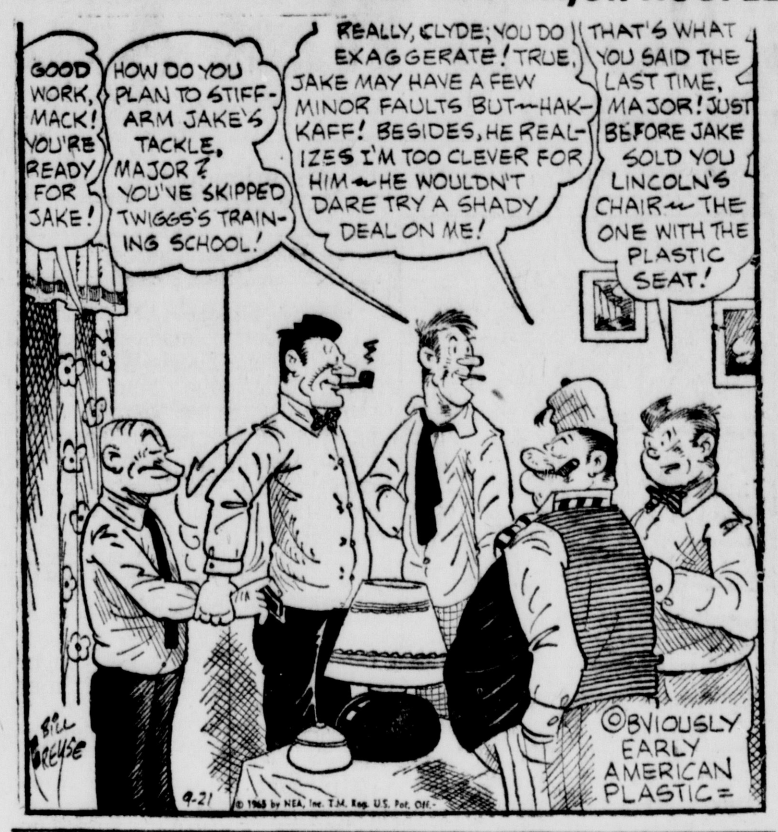

This, he said, will involve a revolution in theology, government, philosophy, in virtually every discipline by which man has set up guidelines to order himself.

"We'll have to change our entire concept of what makes a good man; get away from Puritan ethic that says a good man is one who works hard," said Philips.

Force planes and by other means. What was learned of value to the future? It will take a year to determine that, even with computers digesting the data. Meanwhile the government will push an all-out scientific study of the hurricane menace.

The winds are held in their rotation course by enormous centrifugal forces. The idea of seeding is to drop tiny crystals of silver iodide. This should convert super-cool water in the storm clouds to ice crystals, thereby releasing heat.

The heat, if the theory is correct, should weaken the centrifugal force and thus reduce the speed of the winds.

Just $600 a Week

New Sanatorium Opened For the Hothouse Honeys

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — They call it the "Greenhouse," a posh sanatorium for the hothouse honeys of the social set.

For $600, a woman can buy herself a week of relaxation, low-calorie food, exercise, beauty tips and treatment, and all-around pampering at the $2-million resort which opened near here this week.

A two-week stay, which is recommended for maximum benefits, costs $1,100.

"It's much too reasonable," insisted Mollie Cullum, manager, at a preview for the nation's women's editors. "You couldn't do it in a top-flight hotel for the price."

Fully air-conditioned, the white brick building's focal point is a courtyard pool with water temperature kept precisely at 97 degrees.

Texas sunlight pours through a two-story glass ceiling onto the white marble courtyard floors. Private bedrooms rim the courtyard on the main floor and around the balcony.

Baskets of begonias, vines and ferns hang from the ceiling. Palm trees grow in gigantic pots.

Carpeted corridors off one end of the courtyard lead to exercise rooms, a sauna, herb baths, a beauty salon and massage rooms. A sunken dining room looks out on the pool. A drawing room, library and card room are located in the front of the building.

Mrs. Cullum, an ebullient housemother type with international social connections, oversees a staff of 55. The staff includes a Swedish masseuse, French and German facial experts and a dance specialist who heads the exercise corps.

The big selling point is relaxation and getting away from it all.

"We've got to counteract the pressure from the big cities," Betty Richardson, salon manager, said.

Once in the greenhouse, she said, "the women aren't allowed off the grounds."

The depressurization begins each day with breakfast in bed. Breakfast consists of fruit, black coffee and a slice of melba toast.

Meals are designed to make the customers shed six pounds a week. Alcohol is absolutely ruled out.

After breakfast, the women don saffron terry cloth robes and blue exercise suits and head for phase one of their daily programs.

The program varies from day to day, Mrs. Richardson said, because "we're afraid the women would get bored with the same schedule."

However, in whatever order, the day will include an hour's session with the masseuse, exercises for muscle tone and posture in the pool and in special rooms, facials and hair treatments. Trips to the sauna and herb bath, lessons on make-up and nail care are interspersed in the daily routine.

After work, the women can meet in the dining room for a low-calorie candlelight dinner. However, group eating is not required.

Optional evening activities are planned, including lectures and guest speakers, dance instruction, gift wrap instruction, movies and one shopping trip into town.

Although definite schedules are set up, the women may skip any part of the program.

"We're going to advise them, but we are not going to tell them what to do," Mrs. Richardson said. "They don't come here to be bossed."

The place is operated by Neiman-Marcus, the Dallas department store known for its variety of merchandise ranging from $17,000 leopard coats to hsi-and-her submarines.

To Spread Knowledge And Skills

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — For 15 years, Dr. Porter H. Smith, 40, descendant of New Bedford whaling captains, has dreamed of spreading medical knowledge and skills in underdeveloped lands.

He scrimped and saved every possible penny during those years.

When he was married in 1961, he moved with his bride into a small apartment to cut expenses.

Now Dr. Smith plans to set sail for Central America — and the fulfillment of his dream.

With him aboard the 45-foot ketch Christiania, will be his wife, their three children, and a volunteer medical technician.

Dr. Smith said he hopes to leave sometime next month.

He said the desire to help the underprivileged of other lands developed when he worked as a deckhand on freighters while studying medicine at Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania.

"I even chose my specialty with this in mind," Dr. Smith, an anesthesiologist, physician and surgeon, said. "I don't have any regular patients depending on me."

His wife, Kay, 30, is an X-ray technician who has shared Dr. Smith's enthusiasm for the venture since before their marriage in 1961. The couple met in Madison, Wis., where he interned.

Mrs. Smith said their three girls, Theresa, 3, Jennifer, 2, and Sara Jones, 1, are excited about the trip. "They know they're going to live on a boat and that's all they talk about," she said.

The volunteer is Gisela Priebe, a young operating room technician the Smiths met in Milwaukee where Dr. Smith was in practice. She is a native of Tuttingen, Germany.

"My wife, Miss Priebe and I can work together as a medical team," Dr. Smith said. "We hope to become a sort of auxiliary to the hospital ship SS Hope, going to shallow water inlets in Central America that the larger boat cannot enter."

Turkish Battleship To Be Auctioned

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — The battle cruiser Yavuz, whose attack on Russian Black Sea ports led to Turkey's entry into World War I on the German side, will be auctioned off Sept. 30.

The government hopes to get $2.5 million for her.

The 23,580-ton ship is the former Goeben of the imperial German navy. She and the light cruiser Breslau sailed into Constantinople in August 1914, after being pursued by the British Mediterranean fleet.

Transport Magnate's Son On Rough Road In Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Robert Ansett may be remembered in California as the young American who took his family to Australia — asserted because Barry Goldwater lost the presidential election.

In Australia, Robert Ansett is known as a transport magnate's son who returned home to make good.

Ansett, 31, his wife, Karen, and their three children arrived last April and settled into a house in a Melbourne suburb. He has become general manager of one of Australia's four big rent-a-car firms and is showing business acumen as he struggles to improve his company's position in a tough market.

Ansett's father, Reginald Myles Ansett, heads the huge Ansett Transport Industries, including an airline.

Draft Quota Might Vary With States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Does the California surfer have a greater chance of getting drafted than the Alabama farmer?

The surfer and the farmer would probably be surprised to learn that their draft chances depend very much on their fellow Californians and Alabamians, a Selective Service spokesman said today.

The Defense Department announced last week that November's draft call for the Army, Navy and Marines would be 36,450 — largest since the Korean war.

California, the union's most populous state with a 1965 population estimated at 18.6 million, had a draft call of 1,873 for October, 1,039 for September, and 1,133 for August. Alabama, with an estimated population of 3.4 million, had a draft call of 726 men in October, 466 in September 394 in August.

Each state's draft quota is determined exclusively on availability, the Selective Service spokesman explained. "That means the capacity of the states to supply men qualified for military service and how many are available."

"Whatever variation takes place," the spokesman added, "would probably be inside the states."

For example, he said, the draft quotas would be lower in areas with heavy volunteer enlistments or in a retirement area populated by the elderly.

In those places, the spokesman said, "population doesn't really have much to do with the draft quotas."

"Studies over the years have determined that the average age of the draftee is roughly the same in each state and the number of draftees reflects the state's available manpower," he said.

"When the secretary of defense gives us an over-all draft call, we allocate it to the states in proportion with the state's share of the total number of men available throughout the United States," he added.

Getting into College

Facing the Inevitable Interview

By JOHN C. HOY
Dean of Admissions
Wesleyan University
Middletown, Conn.

Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The admissions interview will be one of the most important factors in determining whether your son or daughter goes to a particular college.

It is important in two ways:
The interviewer, whose job is to make a personal evaluation of the candidate, obviously is in a key position to influence the committee's final decision.

Community Betterment, Council Topic

The Civic Club Council met at Hotel Bothwell Saturday with Miss Margaret Bohon, president, presiding. Clubs represented were Women's Association, Business and Professional Women's Club, Chamber of Commerce, Jaycees, Kiwanis and Lions.

The program was presented by Dennis Onwiler, president of the Sedalia Jaycees. Onwiler told of the Jaycee's interest in the community betterment program and pointed out some of the activities his organization is currently working on for the betterment of Sedalia.

One of these projects will be completed this week. This is airmarking the local airport.

Proposed projects include hospitality booths to be set up in feasible places. These booths would be manned and would furnish information to people traveling through Sedalia. The Jaycees have pledged their support to the City Council on promoting industrial relationships.

Onwiler told of the Junior College effort which is being reactivated. He deplored the loss of the young men who receive their education in a smaller city and then move to metropolitan areas where more job opportunities are to be found.

He discussed community self-analysis and stated that the Jaycees feel that the attitude of a town and its citizens has much to do with community improvement.

The State Division of Commerce has been consulted and Onwiler told of a community survey to be conducted by the Missouri Extension Service. He then showed a small portion of a film on community betterment which is available to all civic clubs and organizations for viewing by their members. He urged that it be borrowed from the Jaycees and that each club show it at a future meeting.

At the conclusion of the Jaycee presented program, Sam Boyle, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, commended the Jaycees on their plans and program, particularly the Junior College proposal. A motion was made that the Civic Club Council go on record as supporting the Jaycee program and that the Council and its individual clubs pledge their help in every way possible to further the community betterment of Sedalia.

The next meeting of the Council will be Friday, Nov. 19 with Kiwanis Club in charge of the program.

Little Means a Lot

NEW YORK (AP) — The Waterfront Commission of New York harbor says dock employment in the Port of New York went up four per cent last month despite sectional job losses created by the 78-day maritime strike.

The candidate, while in the admissions office, is in an excellent position to have any questions about the situation clarified.

What is the admissions officer looking for in the candidate? After having met thousands of young people in similar situations, the admissions officer realizes that no two are truly alike. He wants to know what makes this candidate tick.

If the candidate tries to create the impression that he or she is an absolute model, one who has done everything right, the admissions officer will think something is wrong. They have been around too long to expect or believe in this kind of performance. Besides, an admissions officer would consider such perfection indicative of a rather bland and uninteresting individual. One might wonder that the admissions officer would conclude that his college is not good enough to contain such an individual.

The admissions officer is looking for candor. He will respect the applicant who knows his strengths and weaknesses and can discuss them objectively. This does not mean that candidates are expected to deprecate themselves. The young adult who overdoes this is often as uninteresting as the one who feigns perfection.

It is wise to remember that college admissions officers are trying to pick a "well-rounded" class, not a class full of "well-rounded" people.

The strengths, weaknesses, causes, concerns, bumps and rough edges of the candidate all are of interest to a competent admissions officer. He is an imperfect human being, too.

The admissions man does not expect to do all the interviewing. Unless also put in the place of the interviewee by the applicant, he will feel that the meeting has been incomplete.

If, by the time the interview is arranged, the student is deeply engrossed in the process of picking a college, there will be many questions the student truly needs to ask.

The pitfall of merely asking questions to show off, however, should be avoided.

This means the student should have the good sense to be thoroughly familiar with the college before the interview.

In addition to the conventional material students have searched out about the institution, they should have talked with alumni and students in their home area in preparing for the interview.

The admissions office is there to help the candidate, but the "drop in" does not get the kind of attention reserved for the student who plans ahead. Make an appointment 10 days to two weeks in advance of the admissions interview.

And it never hurts to make the job of the admissions officer less difficult. Make certain he has received all the data required before the interview. Bring along, or send in advance, an unofficial transcript from high school so that time can be saved in reviewing the student's record.

If the parent accompanies the student, it is well to remember that the college is interested in the student, not dad or mom, for the freshman class. Don't, for anything, be the "old man" or "old lady" who sits in an interview and feels that he or she, not their child, is going to be graded on answers to questions.

(While there is no true substitute for visiting the campus, on occasion a candidate just cannot get there. In this case write and explain the situation to the admissions office. Arrangements usually can be made to have a representative of the office or an alumnus interview the candidate in the home area.)

Time must be budgeted to allow four or five hours on the college campus. A half-hour interview and campus tour cannot provide all that must be understood in order to make the right decision.

Candidates should really try to plug themselves into the campus life during the visit. They should read the bulletin boards. Bulletin boards, often very directly, can tell them much about the political, social, religious and literary life at the school.

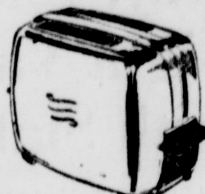

Applicants can benefit by introducing themselves to students in the union, book store and campus walks. These random encounters often are more helpful than the official tour. But keep in mind that individual opinion may be colored at the moment by the loss of a steady girl or by a flunked examination.

Since at least half of a college education comes from outside of the classroom, the intellectual ferment revealed by the bulletin board and personal encounter

Tribute Is Recorded

PARIS (AP) — One of France's most popular singers, Gilbert Beaud, has recorded a musical tribute to President Charles de Gaulle but has no plans to send him a record. "Why should I?" Beaud asked. "He doesn't send me his speeches."
